Q NO# 02

PRECIS

Dream of the End of Racial Discrimination

The author in the text hopes for a better future of his country where no one will be accounted for their past or race, but only the character will matter. The author craves for the day when fearful places of racial discrimination where blacks who are interjected and nullified will live side by side with the white. Social inequalities will be unity. Places of bigotry will soon be doomed, and different races will do everything together and live in harmony.

Q NO# 03

- ① Information provided in the text portrays that the invention of the weapon be attributed only to Mikhail Kalashnikov. He invented revolutionised the world of weapons due to its reliability, inexpensiveness, short and light to carry and easy to use. So, it can be said that only the striving of the Kalashnikov made it possible to come up with AK-47.
- ② Reliability, light weight, comparative easeness of AK-47 when used, and easy to carry were one of the revolutionising attributes of the weapon. Furthermore its use in scaring hotness or harsh coldness, in waterlogged jungles to sandstorm of middle East were yet other revolutionised qualities of the weapon AK-47.
- ③ As per the text Germans already were at upperhand in weapons, but invention of the weapon AK-47 changed the course of war due to its quality of ubiquitous in terms of mechanization of weapons. Therefore, it will not be wrong if it is called as the best inventions came during the time of crisis. AK-47 is one of the evident proof of it.

④

It is evident when a weapon is invented, its only object is to kill the adversary, now that be in defense or in offense. Carriers of weaponry are also ~~both~~ accountable for the killing of people, but from the information provided in the text, one can easily point out that weapon is the one which kill people.

⑤

In my opinion, Mikhail Kalashnikov's last words may have consoled his conscience, but the immense impact and misuse of his invention, the AK-47, can not be overlooked, leaving room for ongoing debate and differing perspectives.
