Conclusion

The world is moving at fast pace and demanding change from all its stakeholders. The ongoing era is an era of technological advancements and any nation not giving its contribution in it may lag behind severely. In given context, one of the change that ^{the} world has come ~~across~~ across is an era of online education, especially after Covid-19.

It can be said with no doubt that occurrence of Covid-19 has brought a lot to the world and amongst one of the segments is education.

Online education is indeed an opportunity, as it has equipped the young nation as well as the old orthodox to bring necessary changes in their practices in order to meet the world's requirements, else they will lag behind.

Only online education has served the best in its efforts to leverage the people with time and freedom. Students can freely without wasting time of travel and dressing up, attend their classes at the comfort of their home. Likewise students appeared for exam and completed university degrees in Covid era. It saves from the stress of reaching via heavy traffic and helps in giving full concentration to subject at hand.

It has also helped the youth towards digitalization, knowing various apps like Zoom, Google meet and online platforms

Online education also helped the parents and teachers towards advancing their existing skill set and equipping it with the latest technologies to ensure their survival.

Online education played its role greatly in economical aspects, as it helps in saving fuel, expenditure on clothings etc. Saving fuel is environmental friendly aspect as well. Moreover, programmes enrolling in online education also give concession in comparison to physical education. Further, international degree programmes and many advanced courses such as of Google, edex, udemy, are also available online and with huge fee concessions, which makes online education a lucrative option. Online education gives leverage to human to live out of stress and avail the opportunity in their comfort zones, a man do not has to rush and face difficulties to reach somewhere, having the online mode of education, with quality time of family and children, a person can do job, study, shopping or what ever he wants.

It can be said with full confidence, that online education has provided abundant opportunities of employment. A person can do remote job at the comfort of his home, house wife can earn and shoulder their family financially while learning a skill set and do online job. Moreover, many international opportunities are present as well, which a person can avail and earn in international currency without having to bear all risk and travel hassles.

If we see other side of the coin, online education poses many challenges as well. Since in physical education a person feels the comfort of home, once back from work or school, college or university, but with online mode of education one has to remain engaged all the time with notifications and tasks to get done with. A person cannot differentiate b/w his education, work or personal time which brings continuous stress to him.

On the other hand, it poses significant threat to physical posture as well, being on work or education for the major segment of the day and keep using gadgets, snatches the opportunity to exercise, walk or fire body the workout it needs to perform well, resultantly, he may cause pain in certain parts of the body in longer run.

Similarly, family line compromises at great length being ^{an} online working person, as it demands great focus and efforts to be able to stay connected and fulfil demands. Family feels great pressure for remaining outside the working room and not to discuss anything personal or talk at low voice as it may pose threat to their privacy. A person remain threatened towards me or camera, if it opens over random levels, so it may cause embarrassing situations to handle.

So, what can be done in this situation is to use a balanced approach as despite having all sorts online education has provided a new perspective and many opportunities for the advancement which can be proved at its best for the betterment of the economy. All is needed to harmonize the change and device strategies to utilize the opportunity at its best, as power outages can be dealt with having a better power backup at hand. Similarly, change in attitude is needed to be able to accept what is demand of time and be more welcoming towards it.

Conclusion:

Online education may poses certain challenges, but it is an opportunity indeed if utilized in constant constructive way. It has equalized the humans globally and provided handful of opportunities to everyone around the globe, only the need is to embrace the change. Govt. should take measures to facilitate the youth at best in availing the opportunities gifted by the online education.
