Maxtin Luther King in his iconic speech puts out his vision of an egalitarian future for his country. He believed that the principle of human equality will stand tall. The shackles of slavery will be broken and racism free country will emerge. He further hopes that the oppressive states will also adopt the principles of liberty and equality. The future generation will not give importance to the color difference. Moreover, the ^{states} ~~countries~~ currently practising the racism will see the upcoming generations adopting the principles of brotherhood irrespective of color. The differences between states will fade away and a united nation will emerge. With that, he hopes that future will see the country transforming into an epitome of unity and brotherhood.

Que⁰⁷

The one who stays ahead of time, progresses more. He is bestowed not by system or officers but nature. We must believe that Allah is the saviour of our efforts. We should believe that nature will bestow us for sure. The efforts, which are not credited by people, are credited by Allah. You must trust this as you trust your existence. Sheikh Saadi says, "Seek as per His Beneficence, not as per your ability." It's possible that I deserve less, but His Beneficence may change my fortunes, for He has because He has incountable ways and means to bestow.
