Q.7

An individual who remains one step forward develops more. ~~He~~ An officer or a system does not play any role in his progress, rather he flourishes naturally. We should have faith that Allah Almighty is the protector of our hardwork. We should have faith that nature will pay us back. Allah rewards us with our hardworks which no other human can grant us. You should have faith in this matter just as you have belief in the existence of your own body. According to Sheikh Saadi, "when ask do not demand according to your worth, instead, ask according to His magnificence. It could be that my worth is very little, but may the glory of the giver make me King. He has countless ways and excuses to reward."

Q.2:

A Dream of Freedom and Equality

The author expresses his dream that one day slaves and their owners of Georgia will sit together promoting brotherhood. One day, the state of Mississippi will come out from oppression and will turn into a heaven of freedom and justice, where people will not be judged by their colour but by their character. When the racists of Alabama will shake hands with each other. A day will come when every valley shall be submerged into an oasis and blessed with the glory of the Lord. The author believes that with this hope and faith, he will return to South and transform the nation into one equal community where people will perform their duties with freedom.

i) The invention of the weapon, AK-47, cannot be attributed only to Mikhail Kalashnikov. This is because the weapon was invented during the second World War. As the inventor was a Russian tank mechanic, he was wounded during the German invasion in 1941. Therefore, if the war would not start, the weapon indeed would not be created to compete with Germany's superior firearms.

ii) As the weapon, AK-47, was short, light to carry, easy to use even in harsh weather conditions, it eventually spread around the world and used by different countries for their self-defense and to counter rebels. Ultimately, it became a symbol of revolution.

iii) → Indeed, the best inventions come during the time of crisis. In Second World War, the German forces were fully equipped with superior firearms having the ~~prob~~ & maximum probability of their winning against USSR. In this regard, Russian army struggled to combat them with more disastrous and deadly weapons. Thus, a tank mechanic of Russia, Mikhail Kalashnikov, decided to develop a better weapon eventually invented the first AK-47 which was inexpensive to produce but had legendary reliability. So, it is true that best inventions come during the time of crisis.

iv) → Those who carry the guns kills. For instance, the deadly weapon invented by Mikhail Kalashnikov was for the purpose of better self-defence and security measures against the German army. But this Weapon is still used by terrorists and criminals to spread violence and deterrence among people. Therefore, it is upto the user that how he avails an opportunity provided to him.

➔ The last words of Mikhail Kalashnikov console his conscience only externally. When he was asked a question about his sleep he ~~posed~~ blamed politicians for failing to minimize violence. But internally, he was guilty over the number of killings and injuries inflicted with his invention. He claimed that the weapon was for defense not for offence. Thus, it is clear that his conscience was not satisfied.
