

Part-II

Q2

The Benevolence of Brotherhood

Martin Luther King envisages a future for his nation where the white people and black people will be at par with each other. He believes that even in the states of Mississippi ^{and Alabama} no one will be judged by their skin colour but only by their character. He believes that this faith in equality will one day lead his nation to ultimate freedom.

Q3

- 1 No, Mikhail Kalashnikov was only the inventor of Automat Kalashinkova 1947, which was the first AK-47.
- 2 It was inexpensive to produce, short and light to carry, and easy to use, with little recoil. It was also very reliable under harsh conditions of both extreme cold and heat.
- 3 Kalashnikov was wounded during the German invasion of the USSR. He witnessed the German's superior firearms and resolved to develop a better weapon, i.e., AK-47.
- 4 As Mikhail has said himself that if the politicians fail to come to an agreement and all they do is resort to violence and use his invention to kill others than it is not the weapon but the user who is actually doing the killing.
- 5 Mikhail's last words do console his conscience because it is not the weapon that kills but its user and it point towards a larger understanding, that if it was not Mikhail's AK-47, it would have been some other weapon used in killings. Hence it is the user that's responsible for killings and not the non-living, conscience lacking weapon.

Q7 A person achieves more success if he is one step ahead. He is not dependent on the system but the nature itself sets his course to success. We must have faith in Allah who grant success like no one else. Along with the faith in Allah we must also believe the nature will also work in our favour. We must have a tangible belief in all this. Hazrat Sheikh Saadi has said that ~~that~~ "one must seek irrespective of his status as the giver might give in ~~the~~ unimaginable numbers". The giver that is Allah has all the means and methods to deliver beyond our imagination.
