One spends whole life in search of friend. but in every step ^{face} enemies. Friends are created opposite and envious people are available. Again some question arises in mind that who is the actual enemy? There is certain chunk of people in everyone's life. There is no other option but to live along with them. We cannot live alone family, relatives, neighbors or friends and many more stay associated with our lives. This is the matter of life many people become out of wit, despite that one cannot be detach from them. It becomes responsibility to stay associated ~~inspite~~ inspite of issues.
