Translation:

History is full of such successful people who started their life with very difficult circumstances but subsequently they were counted in successful and famous personalities of ^{the} world. Success, respect and fame is never served on plate only wealth can be served on plate but 'of' for that there is one mandatory condition that your forefathers should have property then you would get wealth. You can buy worldly requisites but cannot buy happiness. Sometimes it takes decades for a person to earn respect. A moment is enough to earn disgrace or to become controversial.
