History is full of those successful people whose life started with harsh circumstances but later on they were considered amongst the world's successful and famous personalities. Success, honor, and fame is never served up on a plate only money is served up on a plate. but even for that it is essential that you have ancestral lands only then you'll have free money. You can buy worldly luxuries by money but you can't buy happiness with it. Sometimes it takes decades for one to earn respect, however, only one moment is enough for one to earn disgrace or to become controversial.
