

A Question #5 Punctuation:

One day, walking together up a hill, I said to Friday, "Do you not wish to be in your own country again?" "Yes", he said "I miss it." "What would you do there if you ever go back?" said I. "Would you burn wild and eat men's flesh again?" He looked full of concern, and while shaking his head said, "No." I was glad to hear this, as we gradually kept climbing towards the top.

Q#7

It is often said about some books that have changed the world. Scholars chose these books according to their will and circumstances, but where there are books that change the world, there are also some books that mislead the world, they are responsible for the backwardness. In any society, it can be estimated by the publication of books, whether the books published are going to change the world or want to keep bounded in outdated traditions from the point of view. If we examine the books published in Pakistan we see that these books are influencing peoples minds with religious prejudice and feelings of undue national pride. The expression of this mentality can be seen in today's Pakistan society.
