Q.

Comprehension

1.

Answer: The difference between human beings' fear of death and children's fear of darkness is that the worry of human being increases by stories which they heard about the difficult conditions of dying person. On other hand, the children fear of darkness increased by the stories of the heard ghosts and these thieves. In fact, both darkness and death are reality. Fear is a common factor in both phenomenon. However, if human being looks upon death as a law of nature and then he feels afraid of it, then his attitude is of cowardice.

2.

Answer: The religious and sacred view of death is that for the human being, death is a kind of punishment and reward for him in the life hereafter. If a human being has committed more crimes and sins, then he will be punished for it accordingly in the life hereafter. Also, if he had spent pious life, he will get reward for it. Hence, belief of human being on entry into another world after death is the sacred and religious view of death.

3.

Answer: The painful experiences described by the Monks in their books are that human beings have been going through physical tortures to become purified. Death is regarded as a way of self-purification from sins. And pains of death are undeniably sadistic. Such books and such thoughts increase a man's fear of death.

4. Answer : Seneca, the Roman Philosopher, views about death is that the circumstances and ceremonies of death frighten people more than death itself would do. A dying man is going through uncontrollable pain; his body and ceased function; his face appears to be colourless and yellow; his friends and family weep over his body; various rituals are performed. All such things make to appear death more horrible than it would be otherwise.

5. Answer : The fact that make death appear more horrible than it would be otherwise is that circumstances and ceremonies of death feared people more than death itself would do. A dying person is heard uttering groans; his body is seen undergoing convulsions; his face appears to be completely bloodless and pale; at his death his friends begin
