We keep on testing people all our lives. We are in search of friends but at every step we face enemies. Friends are to be found. Enemies are already available. But the same question comes in mind, that who is enemy?

There are hundred and thousands people in man's life, with them man have to spend life. We cannot live alone. Family, relatives, neighbours, society members, friends and many other people remain the part of our lives. Many people are not understandable but we cannot separate ourselves from them. Sometimes
