We test people throughout the life. We keep looking for friends but keep finding enemies at every step. Friends have to be found but enemies are already available. Then the same question lights up mind that who is the enemy? Everyone has to spend life with hundreds and thousands of others. We cannot live alone. Family, Relatives, Neighbours, colleagues, friends and many others remain part of our lives. It is the matter for whole life. We ~~do~~<sup>are</sup> not able to understand many people still we cannot ~~odge~~ them. Sometimes we have to relate either by compulsion or by conveniences.
