History is full of such people who had ~~start~~ kicked off their lives from very difficult conditions; but later, they became part of successful and renowned personalities of the world. Success, respect and reputation are not served up on a plate; just wealth is easily achieved that is conditional too as you much inherent wealth from you pre-decessors. Through wealth you can buy material pleasure, but you cannot buy happiness. It takes, some time, decades to earn respect, but disrespect and humiliation takes no time.
