

Q1

Ans: The significant achievements throughout history have been made by passionate individuals, including saints, scientists and artists. The challenge of civilization lies in providing every person with opportunity to become a saint, a scientist or an artist. However, this challenge cannot be tackled, unless individuals have a genuine desire to become saints, scientists and artists and in order to sustain that desire consistently, they must be educated on the essence of being these roles.

Q2

Ans. An Artist possesses a deep awareness of the beauty inherent in universe tries to infuse the same beauty into his ~~action~~ creations. He sees the connection between ~~their~~ <sup>his</sup> work and the large world, finds meaning and fulfillment in both processes and outcomes. He satisfies the inner longing of his spirit. While ordinary man does not express his appreciation of beauty in his creations.

Q3

Ans: We can make our life beautiful and charming by realising the significance of art. aesthetic beauty.

Q4

Ans: Beauty is not regarded as an ornament to life or the artifacts made by human. It is an integral part of both. The expression of aesthetic activity, when it manifests in human-made objects, is evident in their designs, just as it is in the design of all natural phenomena. It shapes objects just like moral activity shapes actions, and we should acknowledge and appreciate in objects as we recognize and value moral activity in moral actions. Just as actions devoid of moral activity are unappealing to us, objects lacking in aesthetic activity should be unattractive.

Q5

Ans:

If we cultivate the habit of recognizing that relationship within universe and we exercise spiritual activity it will affect our practical life and morals. Moreover, we should aware that work lacking in beauty denotes an unsatisfied spiritual desire within us and it represents a wastage of life, akin to thinking without truth or acting without right eousness.