Title: A Periodic Cycle of Responsibilities

Parents are blessings of God. They play important role in upbringing of their children.

Author believes that parents should possess certain characteristics for better upbringing of their children. Educated parents invest their time, money <sup>and devotion</sup> to instill responsibility, obedience and loyalty in their children.

All these characteristics make their future bright. In return, it is the responsibility of children to assist their parents in daily chores or in medication especially when they are old. In further, when anyone of them dies then children should honor their last rituals.
