History is replete with such successful people who began their lives in extremely difficult circumstances but came to be included in successful and famed personalities. You cannot be served success, respect and fame on a silver platter: Only money is served you on a plate, that too contingent on your ancestral wealth, only then can you get wealth. You can buy worldly necessities with wealth but not happiness. Sometimes, it takes man several decades to earn respect; a moment is enough to earn disrespect or be pennurious.
