Q1:- What is the difference between human beings' fear of death and children's fear of darkness?

Ans:- In kids the fear is mostly incorporated by hearing stories of ghosts and thieves. In human beings the fear of death is cultivated mostly because of religious and sacred views of death. One other reason is that the idea and process of death is extremely painful and agonizing.

Q2:- What is religious and sacred view of death?

Ans:- The religious view of death is that death is seen as a kind of punishment for the sins committed by a person or death as a source of entering into another world.

Q3:- What are painful experiences described by Monks in their books?

Ans:- The painful experiences described by monks were extreme physical tortures underwent by them in order to purify themselves. Those books gave an idea that the pains of death are excruciating and intolerable.

Q4:- What are the views of Seneca about death?

Ans:- According to Seneca, a Roman philosopher, the circumstances and ceremonies of death makes people more scared than death actually would do. The groans of dying man, the fits and seizures, the ghast and ashen faced look of the dying man, the mourning clothes and weeping of friends and family - all these factors make death more terrifying than it actually would be.

Q4 - What are the facts that make death appear more horrible than it would be otherwise?

Ans: The factors that makes death more terrifying than it actually would be are the sighing and moaning of a dying man, the undulating of feet like spasms, the pale and wretched look of the dying man. The weeping and moaning of friends and family, the mourning clothes and different rituals makes death even more horrible.
