

Name : Ishfaq Ahmad
LMS no. : 27687
Roll no. : 2295
Batch : 328 - CSS24 - ISBI

ANSWER NO. 02:-

Topic: Trade of Arts

Commerce put endeavors in art. In that regard, sponsors were interested in crediting art and profiting from it. Thereby, a market of trading cultural icons was created. In 1980's, during Japanese "bubble economy" when contributed twice as others, businessmen left their marks because commodification was at peak. Ryohei Saito bought Van Gogh's Portrait of Dr. Gachet for $82.5 million but that disappeared because he owed $24 million tax to his government. His statement of sorrow which later turned to be a joke made an ethical appeal that art is global possession. This appeal spread into businesses. Certification by market value and acquisition by world were not the only means. Businessmen with good fortune ~~could~~ could take art. J. Paul Getty Museum of Oilman has the fund to debate on good works.

Total words: 275

Attempted words: 125

ANSWER NO. 03:-

(i) Stauffenberg was a colonel of German army. He was considered to be a future chief of staff.

(ii) The movie 'Valkyrie' presented charismatic personality of Stauffenberg to the extent that even Hitler opined him a German hero. He was planning to defend Berlin. However, the movie failed to reveal the background and philosophy of him.

(iii) Yes, it was justified according to the writer because he presented him as a hero of Germany.

(iv) Though Stauffenberg was considered a hero, he was killed by his superior.

(v) If he had survived the war, Germany would have escaped the worst time and Germany would be a better place.

ANSWER NO. 04:

(6) No road leads to the station.

(2) Some people attended the meeting.

(3) Neither the father nor the son wore glasses.

(4) She is beautiful than her sisters.

(5) He had four sons but none of them is hardworking.

ANSWER NO. 05; Part A

One day, walking together up a hill, I said to Friday, "Do you not wish to be in your own country again?" "Yes", he said, "I miss it." "What would you do there if you ever go back?" said I, "would you turn wild and eat men's flesh again?" He looked full of concern, and, while shaking his head, said, "No, I was glad to hear this", as we gradually kept climbing towards the top.

ANSWER NO. 05; Part B

- (i) Pakistan is in the west of India.
- (ii) She died of hunger.
- (iii) She said it to my face
- (iv) I looked this word into in the dictionary, but I still don't understand it.
- (vii) I'd rather be single than in a bad relationship.

ANSWER NO. 06; Part A

(i) Access: We have an access to the post office

Excess: Excess of everything is bad

(iv) Tyre: The tyre of a car is about to burst

Tire: He is tired of using social media

(vi) Minute: During reading, minute details are important to note.

Minute: A minute ago, the accident happened.

ANSWER NO. 06: Part B

Just as we had come in sight of the valley, we had been met by Jamil. He said positively that the valley was all very fine but there was nothing to eat if we knew. We said that nonsense we could eat anything there. Well, the brown bread was two months old and there was nothing else but potatoes. Milk had to be there anyhow. He supposed positively that Milk had been there.

ANSWER NO. 07: Part of Translation

It is known of some books that those have changed the world. Intellectuals choose such books based on their mood and circumstances. However, there are some books which have spoiled the world. It can be derived from the books published in a community where those are for betterment of society or keeping the society in chains of culture. Owing to this, we can observe books published in Pakistan to figure out that these are filled with emotions of religious conflicts, sectarianism and unrequited patriotism that are contributing to the mindset of people. Today, such mindset is visible in Pakistan.