

Q#

Parents have a vital role in upbringing of a child which can be further enhanced by certain pre-requisites. For parents to be educated is sine qua non as they raise responsible, dutiful and most distinguished children. They infuse in their progeny with passion for work, patriotism and a strong persona. Importantly, the adolescents and grown-ups raised with painstaking efforts of now weak parents bear responsibility to discharge to their former, self-less benefactors. They should similarly cater to their parents' needs as they themselves were once catered to when helpless kids.
