Title: Parental Rights and Responsibilities
precis:

The role played by parents in the upbringing of their children is unprecedented. Therefore, education of parents is of utmost importance. It is believed that only a well-educated mother can make her child a civilized and responsible member of society. Success of the children is also greatly influenced by the teachings they receive from their parents. Switching to the other side of the picture, parents also become a responsibility when they hit a certain age; regarding their health, medication and burial rights. It is the time when children can try to payback this epitome of love on the planet Earth.
