TRANSLATIONS:-

We judge people -throughout life. We are in search of friends but we are finding enemies step by step. Friends have to be found. Enemies are already available. Then again a question comes in a mind, after all, who is the enemy? Every person has scores or hundreds of people in their life. We have to live with all of them. We can't live alone. Family, relatives, neighbours, colleagues, friends and many other people are part of our life. This is the matter of whole life.

Many people don't understand, understandable, but we can't leave them.

Sometimes relationships are maintained due to difficulty or expediency.

Solution:

We tend to test people throughout our lives. Our quest for companionship persists, yet adversaries/ enemy continue to cross our paths. The pursuit of friendship becomes imperative, while foes seem to be readily available. Thus, the same query arises in our minds: who, indeed, is the ultimate adversary? In the life of every individual, there exist scores or hundreds of people. To coexist with all of them becomes incumbent. We cannot live alone. Family members, relatives, neighbors, acquaintances, colleagues, confidants, and various others continue to become part of our lives. It is an enduring affair, wherein numerous individuals are unable to comprehend it, yet we cannot ignore it. At times, upholding relationships becomes an inevitable obligation dictated either by circumstances or personal gain.
