Title: Unbreakable bound between Parents and Children
Precis: be more specific.

Parents are God's precious gift. They play an essential part in a child's upbringing. The principal attribute of parents is to provide quality education to children. Parents instill in them sense of responsibility and duty and impart in them civility and politeness. Highly accomplished children credit their success to parents for providing them quality education. As parents' efforts flourished their children's personalities, now children should remain faithful to their frail parents. They must assist them in their routines, take care of their health and after they die, arrange for a proper burial. In summary, parent's greatness towards children can not be replaced.
