Q # 05:

A. One day, walking together up a hill, I said to Friday, "do you not wish to be in your own country again?" "yes!", he said, "I miss it", "what would you do if you ever go back?" said I, "would you turn wild and eat men's flesh again?" he looked full of concern and while shaking his head said, "NO!", I was glad to hear this as we gradually kept climbing the top.

B. She said it in my face. I send this letter to the address. I looked this word up in the dictionary.

Are you with or against the president?
I'd rather have a single than in a bad relationship.

Just as we came in sight of the valley Jamil met us and said that the valley was very fine but ~~we~~ we know that there was nothing to eat. We exclaimed angrily saying that we could ~~see~~ eat anything there. He told us that the brown bread was two months old and there was nothing else but potatoes. We asked ~~that~~ there must be milk anyhow and he agreed that there was milk.

Q 2 = Title: Arts degenerate into a business venture

The journey of art from the hands of ~~business~~ artists to businessmen was very short and it did not take them very long to trade art like commodities. During 1980s, Japanese businessmen started to invest in western art pieces as the country's share prices rised more than double. As a result, these art pieces started to vanish from public eye, erasing public at large. Nevertheless, the devolution of great art will continue as the ownership can only be obtained by paying market value and not many people in the world have the capacity of ownership. However, art surely has ensured the circulation of once stationary wealth.
