About few books it is usually said that they have transformed the world. These books are selected by the intellectual people according to their choice and circumstances. Although a few books transformed the world at the same time there are few books that are responsible for its backwardness. In any society, through published books it can be analysed that whether these published books will transform the world or entangled it in obsolete practices.
In this ³ perspective, if we analyse published books in Pakistan we can see that these books are influencing people's mind with religious prejudices, Sectarianism and unnecessary nationalism sentiments. This mindset can be seen is reflected in Pakistani society.

Title: Commodification of Art

Art recently ⁴ became a business venture. People barely understood art as prestige rather through art profit is achieved by businesses. Before that traders traded cultural art as commodity. During 1980's the trends of commodification became gloomy. When large corporations invested in great pieces. For example, Ryoei Saito purchased Portrait of Van Gogh's worth $82.5 million. A representative made ethical appeal to him that art remains the possession of world. Despite ethical appeals art is becoming business commodity. World does not possess means to acquire it. Only Paul Meassem asserts the
