

Title: Work: chief object of life, but not money

An educated person never prefer money over his intellect, but only a source of his food. However, a healthy person enjoys his food; hence, enjoys pleasure of earning - not wealth. Likewise, a good soldier prefers victory and clergymen likes preaching, but not money as a chief aim of their life. Similarly, purpose of a doctor's life to cure his patients, even to reduce his fee, but not to get only fee. Hence, all right and educated people prefer work over money.

(1/3 - 80 words)