→ According to the writer, money should not be the primary focus of life, similar to a meal which is essential for healthy people but not the primary concern in their life. The major goal of good soldier is also to win the battles not to receive the payment. Similar to this, a clergyman's main goals are to baptise people and preach, not to get paid for his sermons. A brave and educated doctor make his patient's life his first priority they would rather lose their fees than kill a patient. well educated, brave and intellectual men always comes first followed by salary.
