Money: the Second Priority of Brave Men.

A man with good qualification, manners and thoughts never makes money the only purpose of their his life. For the people with sane minds, making money is an act of enjoyment and gives a feeling of fulfillment. For them, the sense of achievement is for greater than the sense of making money merely. A good soldier aims to fight well and win, but at the same time, he is delighted to get paid. A clergyman feels happy to preach and a doctor aims to treat his patients well. They all consider their pay as a reward of their services. Their salaries are no doubt dear to them, yet are at second priority.
