Title: Beyond Wealth: Prioritizing purpose

A well-educated, intellectual or brave man cannot prioritize money as chief object of his thoughts just as his dinner.

While healthy people enjoy meals, it's not their life's main focus.

Similarly, those with noble qualities like soldiers, clergymen, and doctors have primary mission that surpass monetary gain. Soldier's main goal is winning battles. Similarly, clergyman prioritize baptizing and preaching. Doctors desire to cure the sick above fees. These brave individuals prioritize their work over money though fees remain significant by secondary.
