

Title - Money as a Second Priority.

A man who is well educated and brave can't make money as a goal of life. All healthy people enjoy their meal but not make it a primary focus. All rational humans find enjoyment in earning money rather than having money. For e.g. a soldier want to serve his country throughout life he appreciate his income but he complains only when you make him go for 10 year with out having it. His major goal is to participate in battle rather than compensation.

Priest main goal is to preach society not to earn money. Similarly doctors take their fee as a service they provide to cure their patient. All well trained and skillful people their work is first priority of money is second. It has huge importance but still remain second priority of a person.
