Importance Of Hardwork.

An intelligent and well-educated man do not prefer money but prefers meal instead. Although healthy people like their eatable ~~but~~ they always prioritize earning money which is not a good thing. For example a good soldier's desires and life's mission is fighting well and win a battle, not making money. The clergyman's objective is to preach, not for money. A good doctor also gives importance to patient health, not to money. They always work hard to save their patient life, not to make money. So, all intelligent people's first prioritize their object then focus on money. But unfortunately, working hard is still on second.
