Title :

Money : A Secondary Option of Intellectual Choice

A civilized man never prioritizes money in his life, over any other thing. All healthy minded people like the process of earning money not the money itself. For example a soldier used to be winning a battle; Cergyman preach without the instinct of reward from people; doctors fight for their patients' health, in all these professions people who are well educated; their priority would be to serve humanity and not their money as fee or pay.
