

"Work comes first"

A learned and courageous person is unlikely to set money as the primary goal of his life. He prefers the feelings of triumph to the act of piling up wealth. Similarly, dedicated people in defence, religion and medicine are focused on defeating the enemy, delivering the sermon and treating the patient respectively. Therefore, all well-bred and strong individuals keep work as their topmost priority whereas the reward of their work holds secondary importance for them.

Good comprehension of ideas

Precise the sentence

Break into a new sentence

Suggested titles for yesterday's precis

"Money is not the End"

"Profession as a priority over money"

Suggestions for improvements:
Do not make complex compound sentences

Begin and end precis with a precise sentence

Avoid enlisting

Do not explain all three examples separately, rather give an essence

7/20