

Part - II

Q2

"A general should have physical and moral courage"

Physical, moral and calm courage is very important in a general as his health. Voltair says in Marlborough that calm courage is one of the greatest blessing of nature. A military writer praises Soffre for his calmness during hard day. It is not easy to find out which age would be suitable for an influential general. Hannibal, Alexander, Napoleon, Wellington, Wolfe praise young men for war but many others earned their name at older age. For example Julius Caesar and Cromwell, Marlborough, Turenne, Moltke, Roberts, Foch did their best at the age of 40, 61, 63, 66, 67 and 67 respectively while Wellington, Wolfe, Moore, Craufurd were commissioned at the age of 15. So, it is not possible to predict as old men have great judgemental and experiential approaches while young one can have innovative thoughts. But can be said certainly. That a good young general can beat the old one. So, choosing general at young age is a good step.
