Significant of Courage, Knowledge Physical and Moral Ability :-

A later military writer, who had no great administration for jobs, was compelled to admit that his calm and obstinate determination in the darkest days of retreat had an influence which offsets many of the grave strategical blunders which he committed. A great spirit can rule in a frail body, as Wolfe and others have shown us.

One of the ancient Roman poets has pointed out the scandal of old men at war and old men in love. On the other hand, Julius Caesar and Cromwell began their serious soldiering when well over the age of 40. It is impossible to really to give exact values to the fire and boldness of youth as against the judgement and experience of the riper years. At the same time there is no doubt that good young general will usually beat a good old one; and the recent lowering of age of our generals is undoubtedly a step in the right direction.
