6. Conclusion.

The story of women struggle in her professional life is the same as that of 'Cinderella', unchanged. Although, in past few movies of Cinderella there are few changes like Cinderella trying to be independent and wanting her own identity but the plot remains the same. She still lose a show and the prince still finds her and they both get married. Similar is the case of women and professional life story, women did get some recognition and rights but the old story of scuffle remains the same. Women still is dominated by man, is not given equal responsibility or higher position, considered weak, paid less, burdened by personal life and is deprived from education. Therefore, it is very vital to give females equal opportunities, higher responsibilities and status, should not be considered weak, paid equally and given education. Hence, there is no doubt that women has always and still losing the battle of professional life because of discrimination and inequality, this will always remain the same if not given equal opportunity and representation.

The story you used is fine, but it needs to be refined.

Do not enlist points in the intro. Increase the length of your Intro as well.

Upto this time women's struggle for professional life has not ended and is still a losing battle. Women's fight for equality and professional autonomy is centuries old. Due to the struggle of females they did not get many of their rights and social status but unfortunately they still are losing this war of professional life just like they were in the past.

means there is no chance of winning

Why war? Why not a race?

One of the main reason of ~~women~~ was ~~and~~ is the male dominated cultural environment. From the very beginning ~~male~~ ^{men} were the sole breadwinners of the family, hence having all the authority in home and in office. Therefore, women dominating the ~~office~~ is not accepted by this gender and still try to dominate women and does not let her win.

The tone does not match. You sound like the race is over and the women have lost. but the topic is continuous. You need to phrase it like they remain on the losing side because

Discuss professional culture. That is your point in the outline

Also lacks proper argument no evidence used

In addition to ~~office~~ ^{to} culture being dominated by men, women are also not given equal opportunities as men. Women has always been considered minor and given low jobs, due to which they still do not get equal opportunities as men and remains at the losing of the war.

indent at the beginning of the paragraph

2 separate issues discussed. Opportunities and stereotyping jobs is something else

One of the major reason of not giving equal opportunities to women is that they are considered weak and emotional. It is also related to their biological structure as well that they ~~cannot~~ do high labour jobs or the jobs which requires practical mindset. As a result, women end up being suppressed.

Again, multiple arguments no proper reasoning no validation

Due to the mindset that women are weak and emotional, they are also not trusted with high ~~pos~~ authoritative position.

It can be seen that in the ~~parliament~~ the number of women is not even half of the number of men. Hence, they do not get a say in any big decision and upto date women are underrepresented.

Again lack of argumentation

Why is parliament the only highest office, why not CEOs managerial position

Another important reason for women lost is that women ^{has} ^{here} to balance both personal and professional life. Up to ^{connector} the present time women ^{are} ^{were} expected to do all the home chores even if she has a professional life.

Behaving both these worlds takes up too much energy, which is the reason why females cannot fight these professional battle with all her might and ends up losing that battle.

The language used is very negative

^{have} Apart from the ^{old} cultural norm that women ^{has} to maintain her house, ~~are~~ another social taboo ^{that has not changed} is that girls should not be educated after a certain limit. This increases the number of uneducated girls in ^{Indian} society. ~~They~~ either get married or even if they get a job it is not of high status. Resultantly, women gets undermined.

The story that is told from the centuries and has not changed does not mean that it cannot be changed. Women can also win this fight if the centuries old cultural male dominated environment is changed and women are also given a say in the important decision. Hence, to change this old culture gender equality should be promoted.

Incomplete

Along with changing the mindset and being gender equality it is also very important that women are given equal opportunity as men. There should be same amount of quota for women and same safe ~~and~~ opportunities.
So, that women can also get a chance to prove their abilities. Therefore, equal opportunities for women should be promoted in office.
