Q.7 Translation:

The obligation of a student is to fetch the light from teachers and books that can illuminate the darkness of his life. The fulfillment of this obligation requires dedication and consistency. Each external factor that negates this obligation, must be kept separate. Otherwise the training of students would be left incomplete and the precious time that had to be spent in fetching knowledge will be spent in mere political activities. Our country needs clergymen and scholars that are compilers of Eastern studies, Western studies, religious studies and worldly knowledge, more than politicians.

Obviously such all-rounders will only be born if political activities don't interfere with educational activities.

It is said that our education system is comparatively inferior than Western countries, that to some extent is due to our economic conditions. And it is true to say that mostly the teachers are unable to initiate the love of knowledge in the hearts of students. But mostly the responsibility should be on students.

Q.2 Precise writing

Title: Menace of Beggary in India.

Precis

Begging has become a profession in India. Foreign visitors often label Indian cities as the cities of beggars and dust. The author is bothered with the question of the cause and effect of beggary in the society. The primary cause of beggary according to the author is that, Indians are highly religious and believe in giving alms, as this would guarantee their peace in life, hereafter. Beggars exploit their religious sentiments to get maximum money. Many healthy and well-dressed people inherit the profession of beggary. This spectacle is seen in almost all parts of India. The unaware people due to the fear of being cursed by beggars fulfil the demands of beggars. However, due to education and social awareness, modern Indians are motivated to curb the evil of beggary. Undoubtedly, unemployment, and poverty along with population explosion is the major cause of beggary. But this disease of beggary is deeply rooted in the minds of people. That's why masses should be made aware that it is not a good practice to give charity to these able-bodied beggars, as this will ~~an~~ increase laziness and an unending poverty in the Indian society. The states should make laws to halt the increase in the number of beggars, particularly in the holy cities of India. Presently begging has become most dangerous evil. The modern and well-suited beggars are exploiting people without even letting them know.
