Title: Eradicate the trend of begging from India.

Begging has become a profession in India and the beggars are increasing day by day. Most cities are called cities of beggars by the foreigners. The data of beggars does not matter but their consequences on the society does. Many religious Indians give charity to them for reward in after life, which is the main reason of their increasing numbers. This is sometimes pass in families and healthy people wearing colorful clothes also beg. Beggars are taking advantage of the fear in people's mind of bad wishes by them upon sexual. Modern India wants to get rid of this societal stigma. Begging is also criminalized in many countries. One of its cause in India is a huge population with limited resources. This can be mitigated if people stop giving to healthy persons. State must devise laws and take strict actions to eradicate beggary. As beggars use various tactics to beg from common people. ### Translation:

It is a life's duty of a student to gain benefits from teachers and books that can lit up their dark paths for them. To perform this duty concentration and perseverance is required. Any external effect against it must be isolated from the educational sector or the peril will be that the student's education will remain incomplete and the time that he had to spend in gaining knowledge will be granted to the interests of political activities. Our country needs more clerics composed of all sort of worldly and heavenly knowledge <sup>than</sup> that of political activists. These sort of people can only develop when political factors do not interfere with literary activities. It is perceived that our quality of education lacks behind from western countries. To some extent it is due to our economic conditions. And this may be true that some of our teachers remain unable to lit the anguish of knowledge
