

Q No: 2

Ans: Begging is become profession in india, and it is increasing day by day. It's increasing specially in those cities ^{like Varanasi} where foreigners visits frequently at sacred places. These cities also known as city of beggars and dust. The various increase in number of beggars has no evidence, and it's only evident to visitor from abroad country. There are various root causes of increase in number of beggars. Firstly, Indians are hospitable people to the beggars and give them charity. Indian people give charity to beggars to get Moksha and get heaven in next world. Secondly, Some beggars are genetically beggars or beggars by birth. Under the acts of Parliament begging is considered as crime even in some countries people are warned if don't work/earn money, can't have food. It clearly indicates depressing situation of India. The major causes of begging are unemployment, impoverishment and increase in population. The Charity is just increasing chronic impoverishment and idleness. The state has to design strict laws to check in growth of beggars. Law should be implemented specially in those cities where beggars are increasing day by day. Begging as profession has become increasing even some beggars are in formal attire by wearing pants and coats.

Q No: 7 Translation.

A student's duty is acquire knowledge from books and teachers. One who can enlighten the dark path of life. Continuity and persistence is necessary to perform your duty. Every external effect which is opposite to it must be kept away from it. Otherwise, a risk is present that student will not completely acquire education and who want devote their time for education which will be spent in political activities. Our country need scholars and teacher rather than political worker which will provide eastern, western, religious and world related knowledge to produce these kind of people. In educational activities politicians should not interfere. It's said that in western world comparison our education system is weak due to our external condition. And it is disingenuous to say that mostly our teacher/scholar are unable to create interest of students to acquire knowledge but also its responsibility is student's as well.
