Title : Rise of beggars in India

Begging has increased and beggars have grown in number in India. Even foreigners notice that the ~~big~~ cities of India are full of beggars and unclean. There is no way to calculate them but it's also not the end goal. The most significant question is how the beggars live and what are the ramifications of them on society. There are multiple reasons behind the increase in beggars but the most crucial reason is the religious inclination of Indians towards beggars. The religious text promote charity to achieve Moksha in the next world. Another reason behind accelerated begging is adopting beggary as a profession from generation to generation. Fearful from the displeasure of beggars is also a major reasons behind the beggars exploitation of their masters. Educated Indians try to solve the issue of increase in beggars. In Western countries begging is considered a crime under Vagrancy acts. However, in India poverty, unemployment and population rise has exacerbated beggars. Social revolutionist should correct the concepts of charity and highlight how unholly life the beggars are living. Laws should be enacted to stop this profession. However, Modern well dressed beggars have various ways to take benefit from the vulnerable masters.
