

Q7 women are not protected legally can legal action protect them?

1. Introduction

TS ^{socially} women is not protected from the patriarchy that is prevalent in the society. Relying only legal action will only prove futile but may even create backfire which leads to the widening oppression like ever. It thus underscores the need ^{at the heart} to go forward providing her protection for real emancipation.

Unreadable
Please see what you are uploading before you upload

2 Why is social protection necessary for the effectiveness of legal action?

3 Problem/Issues where legal action taken proved futile due to absence of social protection:

- a Honor killing
- b Domestic violence
- c Child marriage
- d Workplace harassment
- e Dual duty of home and job
- f In Politics

This is either just a list of issues or areas of service, there is no argument here. What do you want to say about it. Why is social protection necessary for laws to be effective?

4 How providing social protection increases the effectiveness of legal provisions:

- a Education increases her ability to access legal support against violence.
- b Social welfare programmes empowers her to access legal help.

Some argue that legal protection that was a social movement that later became a law a Personal is Political Susan M. Okin family and marriage laws b Abortion rights

Elaborate, How do they relate to your main heading c Quota system

Conclusion

Introduction:

No headings in an essay

"The real empowerment lies in change to the society" (Amanda Gorman) have, themselves to free herself from the chains of oppression that have been diverging!

sentence structure + expression not simply but also her soul. For this purpose a writer and Somewhat organized struggle started was triggered in mid 19th century which focused to put pressure the stakeholders to make legislative on these issues. numerous made enormous laws, in almost every state, against core issues like honor killing, domestic violence, early marriage, harassment, that duty of home work an inside home and outside of employment etc. However, these legal effect proved quite due to the absence of any social exchange and empowerment. On the other hand

Your stance is still unclear. Are you arguing in favour of yes or no?

instances of providing social protection lead to and these legal actions ^{would} be true sentence structure

social actions lead to social protection are however if women is not protected just from the patriarchy that is prevalent in the society, through social protection, then taking only legal steps will only prove fruitless as this increasing oppression ultimately is the need of the hour to shift focus towards providing her social protection for real emancipation.

The effectiveness of legal action depends upon socio-cultural conditions. The reason is that improved society is made of some deeply cultured norms. If society is not ready for change then legal actions are only proves

Social acceptance of that legal change are

to women.

Why only these two? There are many other aspects that require change to grant full social protection to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

to women.

Create cohesive shift from one paragraph to the other.

Exam Legal Provision against domestic violence provide the absence of social protection

to women.

to women.

to women.

wrong word

Despite the presence of emergency courts women hardly find the courage to raise voice against it as in case of reporting, she will need to leave the house while she is in a shelter home. She is bound to bear oppression throughout her life. According to Human Rights Commission Pakistan, nearly 70% of women face some kind of domestic violence and out of them only only 0.4% women take that case to court.

This underscores the gap of legal provisions against domestic violence due to the absence of social protection.

Gender based killing is another grave issue which has seen a little or no reversal. Due to the fact that there are women who are under threat or have survived attack do not find proper social protection in the form of safe shelter home or least free legal support. According to United Nations, women are killed by an partner or family member. In the same way, in Pakistan, honor killing is an example of it where a woman is killed due to her choice of clothing, employment or life partner.

sentence structure

Also highlight your references which happened despite honor killing Act 2001 and Criminal Code 2001. Such an example is the Spandan Babbar case.

No new information in concluding sentence

Irreversible injurious practices happen if there are social protection systems available.

Early marriage is not an issue. Child marriage and forced marriage is wrong word

early marriage is not an issue. Child marriage and forced marriage is ?

social stratification issue which could be solved by providing social protection. Mostly due to poverty or lack of education availability she is married before the proper age limit.

In Rajasthan there are 22.7 million child bride according to UNICEF.

who are married due to poverty or other cultural norms. In KDK for instance there are many more child brides than Punjab. Despite this it has continued this malpractice has continued despite legal provision which way punish the perpetrators of 7 years Unnecessary detail imprisonment and fine less than 100000.

Hence this legal provision proved ineffective due to absence of social protection to her against family.

At workplace as well, she has continued to face harassment due to absence of job security. The reason is that reports harassment is often by a senior employee or a senior one while reporting means

sentence structure

in law of job and even worse is the scenario as Harvard University the statistic provided is not clear enough.

Only 30% find new job could mean both, that they are the only ones given justice or only these 30% suffer and are removed from jobs, while the 70% gets justice

Survey report says that only 30% of those who report harassment find new job. But Moreover, as cited Grand staff puts it that reporting separates her perceived sense of reference?

worthiness of promotion. In the early 1980s Legal provisions of blombr Publister Harassment Act 2010 at workplace harassment improved by an amendment in 2022 proved by effective as Deloitte's report says, almost 1/3 of women faced harassment or aggression by senior. The absence of social protection mechanism against this grave issue proved almost quiltle.

Dual duty of home and job also can also cause obstacle in her struggle for economic empowerment which could be catered through socially invented programs such as daycare. She is often portrayed both the responsibilities and which ultimately leads to her giving up uplifting Alaxandra P says she is a woman, not more stronger more intelligent and more creative than man.

Does not highlight failure of legal protection in absence of legal protection developed countries for instance day care systems are provided for worthing women and also social per awareness programs to make her ~~Doctors realize the plight however is absence of providing such social protection. Providing only legal provisions like job opportunities will not be effective.~~

~~In Pakistan as well women are in need~~

Moreover providing social protection increases the effectiveness of legal provisions such as providing her education and awareness increase her ability and knowledge to access legal support against violence or any other kind of injustice. In Pakistan, for instance, according to a report by Public Sector Development Programme Education increases the reporting of violence as of those who reported were 44% of illiterate, educated women and 26% of uneducated women. This social improvement of education increases the effectiveness of legal actions.

In the same way social welfare programmes also empower her to access those legal support systems. In Pakistan for instance,

B.Baqir increase Support Programme is reported to have not only increase the rural women's say in her home decisions but also increase her worth in the eyes of her male counterparts in the same way if enable comparisons enable her to not only steps to improve her health but

sentence structure

also to take by herself the decision of family planning. This idea was put forth by Margaret Atwood in her book 'The Handmaid's Tale' that economic power allows men to take decisions of make her a child producing machine. Thus Strogans and legal actions of 'Citizenship' by body or 'chore' will be futile unless they are empowered to be socially protected.

Despite all this above stated well designed arguments, some may argue that legal protection leads to abuse. They will protect women from oppression. These arguments were put forth by liberal feminists like Mary Wollstonecraft, Susan Moller Okin and John Stuart Mill who focused on 'legal liberation for women by achieving for voting rights, wage parity law, and equal job opportunities. However due to the absence of socially focused steps, more struggle produced results that were not fully utilized or were not achievable

They rallied for legal protection but the fact that they started a conversation, a movement and then gathered public support for those legal actions mean, that first they brought social change which then led to legal action

Susan Muller Okins, for instance proposed in Women's Personal & Political a new book Family, Justice and Gender. Not only Politics intervention can bring an end to female oppression.

Inspired by such thoughts what states → identified your related to gender and marriage protection one for instance is Pakistan's Family and Marriage Protection Ordinance in 1960. Such protection

No structure to paragraph Contradicts the idea you are trying to prove have no doubt brought immensely positive impact for many women today even after 62 years, these are not accessible for many plightful women due to lack of resources and even due to lack of knowledge about such laws. Thus there is still in need of economic and educational protection to end the oppression by taking advantage of political and legal help.

Moreover, these liberal demands, as inspired by Margaret Atwood brought through struggle abortion acts which allowed her to abort a child if she feels herself not ready for it due to one reason or another. However even after more than a century these laws are incoherent presentation of idea What you are trying to argue is unclear standing on shaky grounds. As we saw previous year even in an advanced state like USA some states reached such lower by Rhee like India, it happens so due to lack of proper health care systems which leads to health complications. Even in Pakistan & slogan related to it such issues is significant. backlashed due to absence of proper social health & awareness mechanism.

These legal actions although significant which significance cannot be ignored prove ineffective in the absence of social protection mechanisms which are which may alone lead to her emancipation.

Thus women must be empowered economically and through education As the oppression of the half of the population of the world will remain the biggest obstacle for global development as a whole. As Rupi Kaur says.

"The moment we realize resilience, the moment we realize her potential, we all move the world stands or moving towards greater progress."

Not the point of discussion

	Category	Total marks	Obtained marks
Content	Qualitative analysis	10	2
	Quantitative analysis	10	2
	Validity & Reliability	10	2
	Relevance	10	3
Language	Sentence structure	5	1
	Vocabulary	5	1
	Clarity	5	1
	Command of language	5	0
	Expression	5	0
Structure	Outline	5	1
	Introduction	5	1
	Body paragraphs	5	1
	Conclusion	5	1
Coherence	Cohesion	5	1
	Coherence	10	1
Total			18