Title: Misinformation: A Threat to effective democracy

Around 46 people will cast their votes this year globally but misinformation and ~~disinf~~ poses a danger to the credibility of democracy. Anti-democratic agents use various tactics and tools to derail the electoral processes. They either create misinformation related to elections or they create a negative influence on voters through propaganda and AI-deepfakes. They sometimes attack the electoral process directly as was the case with Spain in ~~last~~ July of last year.

Several general and specific mechanisms can be used to protect the public against misinformation but their use requires solving three issues first, such as recognizing the seriousness ~~and~~ of the problem, acceptance of the warranty of misinformation and an assurance to uphold freedom of expression.
