Thesis statement?

~~Firstly, government surveillance is good as by installing cameras they can deter crimes or criminal activities and can provide a real time~~

Too long for a topic sentence.

over view of secure areas.
 For instance London is one of the most surveilled cities in the world, has an extensive network of CCTV cameras installed by government in public places / spaces
 such as streets, public transportation systems, etc.

Argue first.

No analysis and argumentation

No relation of example to the argument. It only states that London has cameras. It does not state whether it is good or bad.

Concluding sentence?

Secondly, government surveillance is also beneficial in investigating crimes and also helps in minimizing and preventing further crimes. It helps in preventing cybercrimes by allowing authorities to monitor, detect and respond to suspicious activities in real-time. For instance, The New York Police Department (NYPD) has implemented a sophisticated surveillance system known as the Domain Awareness System (DAS), which integrate various data sources including thousands of CCTV cameras placed around the city.

Repetitive. You mentioned these in the previous paragraph as well.

No relation to preventing crime or stopping crime

Concluding sentence?

Day: _____

Thirdly, government surveillance using automated cameras is the use of automated speed and red light cameras in various cities of the world which proves very helpful in enhancing public safety and controlling the traffic.

That's not surveillance. That's simple monitoring and maintenance of law and order. That is not what the topic is about.

Expression is not suitable.

Here is an example of Lahore Safe City Project is a comprehensive surveillance initiative aimed at improving security and public safety in Lahore. The project involves the installation of thousands of CCTV cameras across the city, integrated with advanced monitoring systems. As this project have great impacts

That is not the point in your paragraph. It is not related to automated speed cameras

Unstructured and incoherent

What is the point in the paragraph
Also no relation to whether it is good Or not.

Like there is a noticeable decrease in certain types of crimes in Lahore, particularly in areas under surveillance. Also have significantly improved traffic law enforcement and have played a role in counterterrorism efforts by providing authorities data to monitor and respond to potential threat.

Fourthly, government surveillance also helped in reducing the need for physical guards and lower operational security costs over time. We can see an example of National Highway and Motorway Police (NHMP) automated Traffic Enforcement System in Pakistan. NHMP has implemented traffic enforcement system on Pakistan's national highways and motorways to manage traffic violations efficiently. The system has contributed to a reduction in traffic accidents. Improve efficiency of revenue collection from traffic fines, and also has streamlined processes, allowing NHMP to focus resources on other important areas such as road safety and public awareness campaigns.

Lastly, government surveillance systems enables Traffic cameras aspect of surveillance already discussed.

Unrelated to surveillance. No relation to the whether it is good or bad.

a quick response to incidents, providing immediate visual confirmation of alarms or alerts. As it can significantly enhance emergency response capabilities by providing real-time information and coordination. For instance, Emergency Response System in the United States integrates various forms of surveillance and technology to manage emergency situations effectively. It combines voice communications, location tracking and data systems to coordinate emergency responses. The system has great impacts and reduces response time and provide effective information on time. Webho helps allocate resources based on real-time needs. It facilitates coordination among various emergency services including police, fire departments & medical teams etc. Hence, this is also the reason
