Q#2

TITLE : Democracy under siege: The Threat of Misinformation and Disinformation
Misinformation: A threat to Democracy

05/20

Avoid lengthy titles

Despite the fact, ^{that} four billion people ^{have chance to cast} ~~casted~~ ^{of disinformation} their ^{this year} votes, the threat ^{of disinformation} to democratic integrity is larger. As the effective democracy ^{informed} depends on ^{to word} ~~sentient~~ ^{informed} citizens, they can be distracted & harassed by using conventional propagandas, AI generated deepfakes and false claims about the candidates. The anti-democratic agents can also attack directly on the electoral stations as seen in Madrid, Spain. Several mechanisms can be adopted to protect ^{the} public from misinformation including general and specific attempts. ~~(to control the misleading informations.)~~ These attempts can only be fruitful if they could fairly interpret the seriousness of problem, classify it and solve it upto by upholding the democratic ^{rules}.
