Misinformation: A threat to Democracy

06/20

It has been observed that democracy has been severely affected by misinformation and disinformation generally by plotting propaganda and using AI technologies to defame the contesting participant. Despite large number of people have voted, but democracy got eroded due to excessive false and inaccurate information polarizing public and undermining their trust. This The author argues that education and awareness campaigns can safeguard public against false information but for that policy makers should make sure that they understand the severity of
