Question 3: Comprehension

1. Enzo Ferrari's quote indicates that only the person who achieves the first position is revered while the second position is forgotten due to lack of importance. However, Yusuf Dilek, a Turkish sport shooter, has obtained significant popularity and attraction despite finishing second in numerous competitions due to his personality, journey, and determination. Yusuf's story stands as a testament which challenges Enzo's quotation directly.

2. Yusuf Dilek's popularity is linked with his skill combined with exceptional display of sportsmanship as he has shown humility and gratefulness in victory and loss. Moreover, his ability to comeback displays his extraordinary dedication which has attracted attention towards him. Lastly, the combined role of media and the public by linking his achievements with his journey have contributed in making him an iconic figure.

3. Firstly, Dikeç's acceptance of the result has been perceived as a graceful act which has portrayed him as the gentleman of the sport. Secondly, Dikeç's ability to fight all odds to attain victory despite not starting in the best possible manner in a competition, demonstrates his determination which has contributed to popularity.

4. By portraying Dikeç's journey, difficulties, development, and love for the sport through stories; the media has influenced the public's perception about Dikeç's achievement in a positive manner. The media's role in gaining popularity for Dikeç, is immense, making him an important figure despite not achieving the first position.

5. Success in sports is not only bound to the achievement of the first position but the ability to influence people by showcasing determination, perseverance, and humility are also part of the success. Dikeç's career is a proof

Yusuf Dikeç's career teaches that the true nature of success in sports goes beyond winning first place; it encompasses the journey, the respect earned, and the lasting impact left on the sport.
