

Precis - Test 01

Title: Consequences of corruption in the society

Mostly people fail to grasp the far-reaching consequences of minor acts of corruption, which collectively normalizes dishonesty and erodes the fairness and trust in the society. The collective small favors turn into systematic corruption. Small compromises, such as a public official diverting resources for favor or a student cheating in exams, contribute to the cycle of mediocrity and inefficiency. Furthermore, corruption fosters inequality by favoring those who take shortcuts over those who abide by law, creating resentment and grievances. Studies prove that rampant corruption results in increased crime rate as people, no longer, trust the system. This apathy further jolts the state socially, economically and politically. It is imperative to acknowledge the importance of integrity as it emphasizes personal accountability over mere ethics. If people stand against corruption, it can contribute to more equitable and fairer world.

Composition:

Q1. Why is primary reason why most people fail to keep their New Year resolution?

A: The primary reason behind the failure of resolution is that resolutions lack pragmatic ^{and genuine} aspect while making. Beside this, people often make resolutions due to societal pressure.

Q2. Why resolutions tend to be ineffective even though people are highly motivated at the start of the year?

A: Most of the resolution tend to be ineffective because they are ambiguous and abstract. Moreover, there is a gap between resolutions and practical life. Resolution made on the basis of emotions become ineffective.

as they lack the pragmatic approach. problem lies in the way people approach the resolution.

Q3. What psychological factors keeps people New Year's resolution year after year despite knowing they may fail?

A: The deep psychological reason behind this is that humans ~~are~~ craving for ~~exchangeable~~. It is in human nature, despite failure, people want to start a new thing and New Year provides them ^{the} opportunity to start and make new resolutions.

Q4: What is more affecting approach to achieving lasting change instead of make New Year resolutions?

To make actual and lasting change people need to make resolutions based on their interests, routine, instead of social pressure. Beside this, resolutions must be well-defined and pragmatic, ~~that~~ making it easier to fulfill.