ENGLISH PRECIS AND COMPOSITION.

PART II.

Title:

Pakistanis' rejection for Schengen visa.

Precis:

European countries mostly reject Pakistanis' visa. This problem is similar to preparing one for a huge event and in the end closing rejecting. For some people this is a dream but they are forced to paid because of some ridiculous issues and are not even given a proper chance. Contrary to this, if a western citizens wants to apply for a Pakistani visa they are welcomed. Despite the fact that Pakistan is mostly civilized. Maybe they think that Pakistanis' will disturb Europe's system. The citizens of Pakistan ought to be treated like human's not aliens!

Maybe they will understand if they have to go through the same process.

Q: Comprehension.

1) What were the reasons behind Foreman's transition from boxing to business.

Ans: The reason behind Foreman's transition from boxing to business is that he was a loving father of 12 children and liked to bring his family together for burgers. One day he was approached by a home appliance company for the advertisement of a grill. At first he ignored it but later he accepted the offer and gave it a try liked the unique style of the grill and gave a counter offer of buying a 40% of a partner ship deal. Foreman earned a lot of money because of this deal.

The grill sold millions of units annually and became a household name. He advertised himself along with his 12 children cooking on the grill. This is why famous boxer George Foreman transitioned into business.

The competitive advantage of the George Foreman grill was the unique style of it. The grill had a different design that allowed the grease to drain off from one side. This unique design gave it a competitive edge and compelled Foreman to get into this business. Grills are usually very hard to clean but because of this design it became a success later on.

Ans:

In 1999, Foreman sold the naming rights of the company. This was a very well calculated move from Foreman. He understood a very important principle of business which is knowing when to get out. Because of the success of George Foreman grill many other competitors also started very hard to make their product unique. The market was becoming more and more saturated with more competition increasing everyday. This was a perfect time to sell the naming rights otherwise the business would have gone into decline and the profits would have changed into loss.

4. George Foreman was a boxer who retired after losing to Muhammad Ali, lost all of his money, made a comeback and became the oldest champion. And at the right time he transitioned into the world of business. This story tells us the lesson of never giving up. Showing resilience in the face of hardships and knowing when to make a transition. Another great lesson that this story gives us is that success is not an outcome of fame but to know when to use that fame wisely so that one succeeds.

5. Ho - jae ... struggle.

Ans: This text does not show the true picture of George Foreman's struggle. Stories can never capture what a real problem is like. Foreman was a warrior and when life beat him down he never lost hope and made comebacks that left the world in shock. No text will ever be able to present the true picture of Foreman's struggle and how he tackled the hardships of life.

An African philosopher once said, "When Britishers came to Africa, they had technology and we had land." They were saying that they wanted to give us technological advancement. We agreed to this with our eyes closed. When we opened our eyes they had our land and we had technology. The same way when social <sup>networks</sup> ~~media~~ came into being, they owned facebook and whatsapp. They claimed that this was free. We again accepted this with closed eyes and then we opened our eyes, we had social media but they had our freedom and personal information. Whenever
