

The Agony of Schengen Visa

The rejection of schengen visa application of Pakistani citizens has become new normal.

The rejection on grounds of interests is evident from unnecessary objections on documents as if one is preparing to deceive them.

Whilst, when western countries citizens arrive in Pakistan, we welcome their perspectives on our national issues. Most probably, they perceive Pakistanis as danger. In reality, their energies are drained due to such discriminate actions. Nevertheless, humans must be prioritized as a human. In short, they will understand the agony while standing in the que for Pakistan's visa.

Question 3 :

Q.1

The reasons behind the transition of Foreman from working to business include his instincts, and a greater offer of contract of worth $ 500,000. Following both the reasons, he remained resolute and inventive thus switching his profession.

Q.2

Foreman attained 40% of profits as per his counter-offer. Moreover, he sold millions of units annually and earned over $ 7 million per month in royalties.

Thus, these were the competitive advantages of George Foreman Grill.

Q.3

If Foreman had not sold the name rights, he would have incurred a huge loss. As he anticipated, that market is becoming saturated and it is clear that more suppliers means less demand for one supplier.

Q.4

This motivating story shows the perseverance, consistency and determination of Foreman. It further reflects how one can switch his profession with utmost faith in his abilities. He also taught how fame should be used wisely. His prudence in selling share abruptly shows agility and astute consciousness in their field.

Q.5

This text is a true pictorial description of Foreman's struggle. It clearly depicts the prudent usage of skills and ideas. However, this story lacks to point out the features of Foreman. In short, his insinuations are well articulated in comprehensive manner.

Question 7.

Once a African thinker said that when English arrived in Africa, they had ideology and we had land. They said we are here to develop you and believed in them.

When we regained the consciousness, they have captured the land leaving us with ideology. In parallel, when social media emerged, they said had Facebook and WhatsApp. They said this is all free and we believed them. When eyes opened, they had control over our freedom and private information. Thus, when ever any thing is free of cost, our freedom pays for it.
