Q. NO # 02

The rejection of Schengen visa applications from Pakistan citizens highlights a frustrating and discriminatory process. Applicants apply for Schengen visa is like presenting their dreams, but they got rejected with lame excuses and doubting their intentions. In contrast, Pakistan warmly welcomes Western visitors, offering hospitality and cultural experiences despite their cultural condescension. The western people will understand the value when the role will be reversed, and think that they are also humans.

QNO # 03

1. Foreman transitioned from boxing to business because of his financial struggles after losing his fortune due to poor financial planning and bad decisions. After his boxing comeback, he embraced his charismatic personality, which resonated with audiences and opened new opportunities.
2. The competitive advantage of the George Foreman Grill was its unique design, which allowed grease to drain off, making it a healthier option for cooking. Additionally, Foreman's branding, featuring family oriented commercials and his cheerful personality, made the grill relatable and appealing to households, turning it into a household name.
3. If Foreman had not sold the naming rights, he might have faced challenges as competition increased and the market for grills became saturated.

Holding onto the brand could have led to diminishing profits and potential losses. Selling the rights ensued a substantial, secure financial gain at the peak of the Gillis success.

4- The story evokes contrasting sentiments of initial failure and ultimate triumph. Foreman's financial downfall and the ridicule he faced during his comeback are contrasted with his resilience, reinvention, and later success.

5- The text is highly successful in presenting the true picture of Foreman's struggle and resilience. It highlights his journey from bankruptcy to becoming a world heavyweight champion again, and later a successful businessman.

Bill Gates once had coffee at a coffee shop. When the waiter was taking the dishes away, Bill Gates tipped him one dollar. "Whenever your daughter comes for coffee, she gives me a five-dollar tip," said the waiter. "She is the daughter of a billionaire," replied Bill Gates, "and I am the son of a poor carpenter. This is why it is often said, 'Never forget your past because your past is your greatest teacher.'"
