Q5 A. Bill Gates once had coffee at a coffee shop. When the waiter was taking the dishes away, Bill Gates tipped him one dollar. "Whenever your daughter comes for coffee, she gives me a five-dollar tip," said the waiter. "She is the daughter of a billionaire," replied Bill Gates, "and I am the son of a poor carpenter." This is why it is often said, "never forget your past because your past is your greatest teacher."

Read the passage carefully

② It had a good design. The side of the grill made it easy to drain the grease off. Moreover, it was advertised by George Foreman himself in exchange for a profit of 40%.

③ The business was becoming competitive. It would end in the market being saturated and less money being made. So, Foreman took out his profit while there was still time.

④ At first, Foreman was enjoying his life casually. When broke, he got to experience hardships. Once again he climbed the ladder of success but this time he made a good life outside the ring too.

⑤ The text explains clearly that it is the vision of a person to be successful. Timing matters in all aspects of life. The right time to join or quit makes the difference for a person.
